1. Purpose of this Memo.

The purpose of this memo is to bring together a listing of academic journals on disability.

This document is intended to show the reader, at a glance, what journals are available in the field. This document is aimed to facilitate research and to show the reader the range of journals he or she could submit articles to, and to highlight the impact factors of journals, where available, that may be relevant if submitting articles for publication.

This list describes where the journals are available online to all users. Additionally it covers what is available to NUI Galway students and staff, whether in hardcopy in the main University Library, online via the NUI Galway data portals or in the CDLP research library.

This is an organic document that will grow and expand and we depend on inputs from you to help keep it current. As a first effort it will inevitably have gaps. Please have patience while we fill those gaps with your contributions.

We like to hear from you. Please email info.cdlp@nuigalway.ie with comments/amendments/updates that you feel are needed in this document.
2. Structure of this Memo.

The list is organized by theme. The themes are broad and several journals can fit into different themes. But for the sake of convenience and clarity the following themes are used:

A: Disability Studies.
B: Disability Area Studies (e.g., Europe).
D: Intellectual disability.
E: Medical/Rehabilitation and disability.
F: Mental Health Law and Policy.
G: Accessibility.

Within each theme, each journal is described under the following headings:

- Name of Journal
  - Publisher:
    This describes what publishing house prints the journal

  - Available from:
    This describes the date the journal was first released and states if the journal is still in publication.

  - Main areas:
    This describes the main topics covered by the journal – this information is taken from the official descriptions of the journal, by the publisher.

  - Website:
    This will bring the reader to the home page of the journal. Many of these journals can be accessed by their website and without the need for a portal.

  - Impact factor:
    A journal’s impact factor is based on how often articles published in that journal during the previous two years (e.g. 2008 and 2009) were cited by articles published in the most recent year for which JCR data is available i.e. 2010. Therefore a journal with a high impact factor indicates that articles in that journal have been cited frequently by other articles. This can be an indication of how prestigious a journal is in its field. This may be important if the reader intends to publish an article in a high ranking journal.

- Availability in the NUIG main library:
  Hardcopy – This section describes if the journal is available in hard copy in the NUIG library.
  Soft copy: This section describes if the journal via a specific portal on the library database website.

- Availability in the CDLP library:
  This describes if the journal is available in hard copy in the CDLP Library.

Note for NUIG users - To access the database portals mentioned below, ensure you are signed into your NUIG library account to ensure full access via the Main library website – click here to access the Library Website.
