

The Origin of X-ray Fluorescence Lines and Line Nomenclature

The K_α line is generally the most intense and K_β the next most intense.

Each element gives its own characteristic X-ray fluorescence spectrum which acts as a fingerprint for that specific element

