

Túr an Cheoil

Thursday
November 17
1pm -2pm

Acoustic Room,
Áras na MacLéinn

Jimmy Monaghan

The Tower of Song, celebrating
NUI Galway Societies Music
Week

Singer/ songwriter Jimmy Monaghan – Music for Dead Birds

Music for Dead Birds is an anti-folk group that formed in Galway in the summer of 2007. Using acoustic guitar, drums and vocals they create a primitive, organic sound recording all of their music at home onto a cassette machine. In 2009 they released their debut album "And then it Rained for Seven Days" on the Irish Independent label Rusted Rail and they have recorded live sessions for both RTE 2FM and RnaG. Their live sound is based heavily around a quiet/loud dynamic which has seen them play alongside a diverse range of acts, everything from Japanese math rock band Lite to Australian Folk Group Angus and Julia Stone. They are currently working on a new album.

