Programme Description

The Discipline of Health Promotion, NUI, Galway in partnership with the Dental Health Foundation, administer a Specialist Certificate in Health Promotion – Oral Health over a one year period.

Established in 1990, the Discipline of Health Promotion is the only one of its kind in the Republic of Ireland and is the national centre for professional training and education in health promotion. The Discipline is a founding member of the European Masters in Health Promotion training consortium. There is an active programme of national and international research in place through the World Health Organisation Collaborating Centre for Health Promotion Research, at NUI, Galway. Further details of Health Promotion teaching staff, courses and research activity are available on the Health Promotion website at: www.nuigalway.ie/hpr/

The Specialist Certificate in Health Promotion (Oral Health) is a taught programme comprising three modules, two that include workshop participation, distance education and web-based materials for home study and one module consisting of project work. Participants receive an open learning pack containing text, activities and progress checks.

Programme aims and objectives

The programme aims to provide students with a professional education and training in the principles and practice of oral health promotion. Students will acquire knowledge and skills in the following;

- An understanding of the theoretical background to the concepts and principles of health promotion and the application of theory to practice
- Describe the contributing factors that affect oral health, the application of a range of different health promotion approaches and strategies across diverse population groups in relation to oral health. The course seeks to develop among students a professional attitude to practice and a critical appreciation of current issues and dilemmas in oral health promotion.

ECTS weighting

15 ECTS

Programme fee and funding

The course fee is €1,250.

Please note that fees are correct for the 10/11 academic year, but are subject to incremental change each academic year, circa 10%.

Selection criteria

Selection is based on the candidate's academic record, relevant professional experience and aptitude for the course.

Minimum entry requirements

This course is open to those working in a professional capacity in oral health e.g. dental nurses, dental hygienists, dentists and/or those in a position to promote oral health.

Examination arrangements

The Certificate is assessed by means of continuous assessment with a set assignment for each module. Participants are also required to submit a final project report.

Professional experience programme

Due to the nature of the course as part-time distance education, students are expected to draw upon the course learning and apply it to their professional practice.

Career opportunities

The Specialist Certificate in Health Promotion (Oral Health) provides a professional qualification in this field and has enabled past graduates to secure dedicated positions as oral health promoters. Participants who successfully complete the Specialist Certificate are eligible to apply for entry onto the Postgraduate Diploma in Health Promotion programme in which case they will be exempt from the optional module 'Specialism in Health Promotion'.
