

NUI Galway takes home top prize at SEAI Energy Awards

16 October 2019:

Funded by the Government of Ireland, the Sustainable Energy Authority of Ireland (SEAI) today announced the winners of its 2019 Energy Awards at a gala event which saw National University of Ireland Galway (NUI Galway) take away the top prize for Energy Team of the Year.

NUI Galway has set its sights on the campus being one of the greenest universities in the world. They impressed judges with their inclusive and long-term approach to energy management. As part of its strategy, it created a Green Campus Charter, encouraging and providing tools to students and staff on how they can reduce energy use on campus and in their homes. Already at 36% energy reduction, NUI Galway continue to work towards their ambitious target of a 40% energy reduction by 2020.

A total of nine awards were presented to businesses, communities and public sector organisations recognising their commitment and dedication to excellence in energy management and creating a cleaner energy future.
