LECTURES IN MODERN IRISH CULTURE STUDIES

Attendance at all classes is required and class attendance is noted. Each class requires student participation, and this will be central to your learning experience. Readings are assigned that you will be required to read in advance and discuss. Please note that all lectures start on the hour (e.g. 9am) and finish at ten minutes to the hour (e.g. 9.50am).

ASSESSMENT

Assessment in Modern Irish Culture Studies is by continuous assessment only (there are no final exams). Essays, presentations, reviews and other methods of continuous assessment are used. Assessments should include a cover page indicating date of submission, title and student details.

Academic writing

Writing in an academic style is a process of investigating ideas, collating information and presenting a coherent and critical argument. You will be reading diverse texts which will develop your awareness of different styles of writing and approaches to scholarship. All academic writing requires the author to properly acknowledge the source/s of the information presented through a system of referencing/citation. This is the cornerstone of good academic practice.

Referencing/citations

In your essays, quotations and substantive information taken from other works must be acknowledged in footnotes or endnotes, giving author, title, and page number. When citing unpublished sources, students should follow the advice of the module lecturer. A bibliography, listing the documentary sources, books, and articles used (including all those acknowledged in footnotes/endnotes) must be included at the end of your essay. The most common style of referencing used by scholars in the disciplines of literature and languages is the MLA style. For a useful and succinct outline of this follow the link below through the Hardiman Library style guide: https://owl.purdue.edu/

Academic Integrity and Plagiarism

Academic integrity is a cornerstone of your academic writing and engagement. Plagiarism is when a student presents the work of other authors as his/her own without proper acknowledgement or reference. Plagiarism is a serious offence and is subject to the disciplinary procedures of the University. A full university statement on academic integrity and plagiarism is available through the student services portal on the university home page here: https://www.universityofgalway.ie/media/registrar/docs/QA220-Academic-Integrity-Policy-Final.pdf

When a student directly uses an idea or expressive quotation from something they have read, it must be put in quotation marks and the source acknowledged. When a student paraphrases or relies substantially on an idea or construct of a particular author, that too needs to be acknowledged through references. Not to do so is academically dishonest. If you have any question about the difference between scholarly citation, collaboration and paraphrase, ask for clarification.

Writing skills support

All of your lecturers at the Centre for Irish Studies will assist you in developing good academic writing skills. In addition, we strongly advise students to avail of the services of the Academic Writing Centre. This is a free service where students of all disciplines are welcome to get assistance with their writing skills, essays and reports. Situated in the James Hardiman library, students can drop-in or, in the case of this year, make virtual appointments (academicwriting@universityofgalway.ie).

Assignment Submission Procedures

All assignment must be completed by the specified date indicated by your Module Lecturer. Late submission of any assignment is subject to the following penalties: 5% for part or all of the first week and 1% for each subsequent day.

 The marking system in Modern Irish Culture Studies is as follows

 40-44% / Pass

The ECTS weighting for a module is a measure of the student input or workload required for that module, based on factors such as the number of contact hours the number and length of written or verbally presented assessment exercises, class preparation and private study time, as appropriate. The European norm for full-time undergraduate study over one academic year is 60 credits.

IS2105	POPULAR MUSIC, CULTURAL IDENTITIES AND IRELAND (5 ECTS)
	This module will introduce students to critical scholarship in Irish popular music, drawing on writings in ethnomusicology, cultural geography, popular music studies and Irish studies. Particular emphasis will be given to popular music styles and performances from 1960 to the twenty-first century examining key canonical figures within Irish popular music and significant recordings/events heralding new Irish identities. Topics for discussion include regional and transnational Irish music scenes; musical hybridity; gender and Irish popular music; Irish popular music and

IS2104	CLAIMING PLACE IN GAELIC IRISH LITERATURE (5 ECTS)
	This module will explore the sense of place as a defining element in Irish culture through a close reading of selected Gaelic language texts (studied in English translation). It will examine how space and place are important in the construction identity, and particularly how they have shaped the Irish literary imagination. It will also look at the ways in which Irish language writers deal with the sense of displacement which is a characteristic of the Irish experience in the twentieth century.

IS2102	FESTIVAL, RITUAL AND COMMEMORATION (5 ECTS)

Code	SEMESTER 2 MODULE TITLE and ECTS
IS2100	MUSIC, GENDER AND IRELAND (5 ECTS)
	Ireland's symbolic and gendered construction as a musical nation will offer a starting point for discussions of music, gender and Ireland. Following that, this module will survey a range of genres, performers and performance platforms from the nineteenth century onwards to explore the relationship between gender and music in the Irish contex Particular emphasis will be given to traditional and popular music examples.
	TEXT: Readings available on Canvas. Texts tbc. ASSESSMENT: Continuous assessment and final essay.
IS2103	IRISH LANDSCAPES, CULTURE AND LITERATURE (5 ECTS)

	ideas of 'placemaking' and 'sense of place' are defining features of Irish cultural traditions, particularly as expressed in Irish literature. Through a close reading of texts written in the English language, the module examines how the Irish landscape (and ideas of space and place) has played an important role in shaping the Irish cultural and literary imagination. Key critical approaches include: ecocriticism, environmental humanities, translation studies and cultural geography.
	TEXT: Readings available on Canvas. Texts tbc. ASSESSMENT: Continuous assessment and final essay.
EN464.ii	NEGOTIATING IDENTITIES: ASPECTS of 20c IRISH WRITING (5 ECTS)
	This module provides an introduction to twentieth-century Irish writing and considers how writers in Irish and English have participated in the negotiation of modern and contemporary Irish identities. Beginning with the literary and cultural revival of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, the module will investigate the ways in which writers were actively involved in the formation and reformation of identities in terms of nation-building, language and gender. The politics and practice of translation will be a key issue throughout the module. Irish language material will be studied in translation.
