The School of Law comprises of four academic units, the Law School and three world-class research centres: the Irish Centre for Human Rights, the Centre for Disability Law and Policy, and the Centre for Housing Law, Rights and Policy.

Our academic staff are nationally and internationally recognised experts in their fields of research. Their knowledge and experience provides students with a stimulating research-led learning experience.

We have an established reputation of excellence in public law, commercial law, human rights law, disability law and housing law.

Developing graduate skills and enriching the student experience has always been at the heart of our teaching ethos and law programmes. We offer a diverse range of postgraduate programmes, delivered in a stimulating and supportive environment with exciting opportunities for specialised qualifications, international field trips, internships and legal placements.

There are a variety of extra-curricular activities, such as workshops, seminars and conferences to enhance the student experience and to focus on career pathways and skills. We also engage with the law professions and our community, sharing our expertise and scholarship locally, nationally and globally.

NUI Galway is teaching law since 1849 and we are very proud that our alumni are luminaries in judiciary, government, academia, advocacy, NGO and business. Our alma mater are leading national and international change around law, policy, business, disability and human rights.

If you are considering joining our vibrant student body, please do not hesitate to contact us at lawpostgrad@nuigalway.ie. We invite you to visit our website for detailed information on our law programmes, staff, students, events and innovative research. You can also follow us on social media via Facebook, LinkedIn and Twitter.
NUI Galway is recognised in the TOP 1% of universities in the 2021 QS World University Rankings.

Workshops with world leading practitioners and scholars are a core element of many of our LLM programmes.

International field trips are a core element of many of our LLM programmes.

You will learn from the best! Our world class academics are leading research, driving policy and change around law, human rights, disability and housing.

NUI Galway is one of Ireland’s top universities for employability with 94% of postgraduate students in employment, additional education or research within six months of graduating.

Our careers and employment team provides students with a quality career guidance and information service focused on facilitating and empowering you to manage your own career development and make effective career transitions. The team helps you gain clarity, connect with employers and compete for the best jobs.

The School of Law runs an annual Careers in Law Week with expert talks and workshops around traditional and alternative careers in law. The highlight of the week is the Law Firms’ Fair where students meet and network with representatives from Ireland’s top law firms and learn about law careers through interactive panel sessions with partners and trainees from the firms.
Galway is a place like no other, a medieval city and Ireland’s cultural heart (Croí Chultúrtha na hÉireann). It is vibrant, cosmopolitan, rich in folklore and famous for its cobble-stoned streets, quaint shops and contemporary vibe.

Set on the Wild Atlantic Way and on the doorstep of Ireland’s largest Gaeltacht (Irish-speaking) region, Galway is as distinctive as it is beautiful. From this position on the edge of Europe, NUI Galway has a proud history of reaching out and connecting with the world.

Galway combines the energy of a young and diverse population with the authenticity of a place steeped in history and tradition. The city is celebrated for its culture, theatre and arts with festivals and fringe events running throughout the year.

Students make up 20% of the city’s population and the University is perfectly placed within walking distance of all amenities. Galway is considered Ireland’s most diverse city with one in four people born outside the country. The city is intimate so people integrate easily and the sense of community is one of the features our students love most.

“Galway has been an incredible experience, full of amazing people, professors, and mini adventures. It made sense to pick a place that encourages educational and personal growth.”

Cost of Living

The cost of living in Galway is considerably less than Dublin. Rent prices are 46% more expensive in Dublin city than Galway city (Source: daft.ie 2020 Q1 Rental Report, rent-a-room trends).

Students, in general, do not have long commutes to campus as it is located in the heart of the city and is well serviced by city bus routes.

NUI GALWAY

With over 18,000 students and 2,400 staff, NUI Galway is the largest and oldest university in the West of Ireland. Our riverside location, architectural beauty and proximity to Galway city, makes the campus one of the most unique and picturesque in the world.

Over the past 175 years, the University has built an international reputation based on the quality of our teaching and the global impact of our research. We are especially recognised for our inter-disciplinary research activity that facilitates collaboration and cross-pollination of ideas.

The University makes a meaningful contribution internationally, nationally, and to the region, following a prioritised set of research themes. Social science and public policy is one of the primary research themes where the School of Law and its research centres are making a significant impact.

NUI Galway offers a wide range of postgraduate programmes of international standard providing students with opportunities for personal and academic development, as well as giving them the knowledge and skills to pursue successful careers.
Come join us and be part of a global network of practitioners and scholars who are leaving their mark in the world today.

WHAT OUR STUDENTS SAY...

The LLM in International and Comparative Business Law has given me the flexibility to research closely with dynamic and passionate people who share my interests. The smaller groups make engagement much easier and more beneficial. While studying I had the opportunity to shape my postgraduate degree to a certain extent, which is the most rewarding part of the programme. This LLM gives an unrivalled experience of legal writing and research and an active learning component, which is applicable to any career path.

Students undertaking the LLM (General) will have the flexibility to choose from the range of modules on offer across the School of Law, the Irish Centre for Human Rights and Centre for Disability Law and Policy. Such choice enhances employability as students can select modules that will enable them to pursue their personal career goals.

The programme is designed for students seeking an advanced postgraduate degree but who do not wish to specialise in a particular area of law.

Course Highlights:
> A Tailored Masters which facilitates module choice across the School of Law and research centres to maximise students opportunity to pursue personal career goals.
> Expert Lecturers deliver this programme through small group seminars with guest talks from leading practitioners. Students also have the opportunity to attend and present at key conferences, nationally and internationally.
> International Field Trips* enable students to see the law in action in a global context.
> Skills Development is an important element of this programme with seminars focusing on critical thinking, analytical skills, research skills and professional writing skills.
> Career Support is provided through professional workshops concentrating on students CV and interview skills. Careers in Law Week also provides an opportunity to meet partners from leading law firms.
> Diverse Modules from EU Competition Law, Counter-Terrorism and Human Rights, Current Issues in Internet Law to Sentencing and Penal Policy.
> A Minor Thesis is completed by students on a topic of their choice under close supervision by leading national experts.
> Assessment is primarily through research papers, presentations and minor thesis rather than exams.

Career Opportunities
The LLM (General) is of particular interest to students who wish to gain expertise in a specific area of law without having to limit their options. With the exception of undertaking a module in Advanced Legal Research and Writing, students have flexibility to tailor the programme according to their particular interests and their chosen career path.

Many students decide to undertake the professional exams to become a solicitor or barrister. Others choose to work in the public sector, non-government organisations, pursue their interests in human rights or disability law, proceed to a PhD or perhaps enter the field of politics, journalism or publishing.

WHAT OUR STUDENTS SAY...
The Master of Law General course has given me a foundation of transferable skills in a variety of areas, allowing me to develop a critical thinking approach to my studies. The selection of modules available stems across the other master's programmes, which allows you to shape and mould your own masters and develop your own area of expertise. Most importantly, I have become confident in my ability to engage these skills and develop them further. I felt supported, valued and appreciated throughout my academic efforts.

LAW POSTGRADUATE TAUGHT PROGRAMMES

LLM International and Comparative Disability Law and Policy

Course Highlights:
▸ Unique Qualification achieved as no other university offers a similar programme. This LLM is innovative, pioneering and provides specialist education for our students.
▸ Prestigious Internships based in Geneva with the UN Committee on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities are exclusively offered to two of our students. Interns will complete research to support the UN Committee’s work and will participate in Committee sessions.
▸ Expert Lecturers with national, European and international teaching and research profiles deliver the programme.
▸ The Centre for Disability Law and Policy (CDLP) is the only research centre of its kind in Ireland dedicated to producing research that informs the debate on national and international disability law reform and policy.
▸ Skills development is a key focus of this programme. Modules develop expertise and an ability to critically appraise issues faced by law and policy-makers in this rapidly changing environment.
▸ Guest lectures from practitioners and international experts on current challenges around disability policy and reform. Students are also encouraged to attend the conferences, seminars and events run by the CDLP.
▸ A Minor Thesis is completed by students on a topic of their choice under close supervision by leading national and international experts.
▸ Career Support is provided through professional workshops concentrating on students’ CV and interview skills. Careers in Law Week also provides an opportunity to meet partners from leading law firms.
▸ Assessment is primarily through research papers, presentations and minor thesis rather than exams.

Career Opportunities
Graduates have found employment in a variety of areas, including work in the UN, senior legal appointments, as lecturers, solicitors and barristers, in national, regional and international advocacy organisations, in national human rights institutions, as government advisors and with non-governmental organisations.

Many of our graduates are leading change and reform in disability law and policy throughout the world. Many of our graduates have also secured funding to pursue PhD research and are now working in universities around the world.

The LLM in International and Comparative Disability Law and Policy at NUI Galway is unique in the world as an innovative and internationally focused LLM dealing with the process of law reform in the field of disability. The programme delivers a solid grounding for future practitioners, policy-makers and academics in the field of disability reform.

The introduction of the United Nations (UN) Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities has resulted in significant changes in the area of disability law and policy. Our graduates will be among the first to be skilled in this growing area of law and policy.

This programme will be of interest to students who have completed a primary law degree, legal practitioners, public servants, disability and human rights advocates and people working in disability services.
The LLM in International Human Rights provides students with a comprehensive insight into international and regional legal frameworks of human rights protection. This is an interdisciplinary programme where students are engaged in the practice and public policy context of human rights law on a local, national and international perspective.

This LLM will be of interest to students and practitioners from a range of different fields such as law, social policy, political science, public administration and development. While the programme’s emphasis is on the law and policy of human rights, students with a non-law background are strongly encouraged to apply.

Course Highlights:
- The Irish Centre for Human Rights is one of the world’s premier university-based institutions for the study and promotion of human rights.
- Global Legal Action Network (GLAN) and the Irish Centre for Human Rights have established a partnership which offers selected students the opportunity for hands-on engagement with human rights litigation and advocacy globally.
- An International Human Rights Law Clinic provides students with unique practical training on mobilising human rights standards to secure reform, engaging human rights bodies, at UN and regional levels.
- Field Trips to the International Criminal Court in The Hague and to military barracks of the Irish Defence Forces.
- Expert Lecturers deliver programme modules. Our academics are internationally recognised human rights scholars with world-class expertise and reputations.
- Unique programme focusing on the practice of human rights through specialised modules including international human rights, public policy, law and advocacy.
- Skills development through a strong clinical focus on core human rights lawyering in advocacy, strategic litigation, human rights fact-finding, international diplomacy and public policy.
- Seminars, conferences and workshops ensures engagement with world-leading practitioners and scholars in the field of human rights law and public policy.
- Assessment is primarily through research papers, presentations and minor thesis rather than exams.

Career Opportunities
The programme equips students to pursue careers with international organisations, United Nations (UN) bodies, international NGOs, in international or national legal practice, and policy, advocacy or research work. Students may also decide to work in government, diplomacy or international affairs. The programme will also provide a foundation for further studies through the structured PhD in human rights offered by the Irish Centre for Human Rights.

QUALIFICATION: LLM
DURATION 1 year full time or 2 years part time
ENTRY REQUIREMENTS
- The Irish Centre for Human Rights welcomes students with a Level 8 (or equivalent) undergraduate degree in a range of disciplines including law, political science, social sciences and humanities.
- In cases where applicants come from a non-law background, the Irish Centre for Human Rights will consider academic background, relevant work experience, references and a personal statement.
- Applicants must normally have attained at primary degree level a result of Second Class Honours Grade 1 (2.1) or equivalent. However, those falling short of this standard may be considered where they can demonstrate other appropriate academic accomplishments as well as relevant work experience.
- International students should refer to the country specific information section of the International Office website: http://www.nuigalway.ie/international-students/country.html

WHAT OUR STUDENTS SAY...
I chose to study at the Irish Centre for Human Rights particularly because of the wide range of different subjects that they offered for the course, which I did not find in most other universities. The one to one interaction with the professors helped me understand the subject very well. All the students and the staff have been very welcoming and the multicultural nature of the class makes for very interesting discussions. Overall, my study at the Centre has made me feel a lot more confident in my future career in the field of human rights.

The LLM in International Migration and Refugee Law and Policy is the only course of its kind on offer in an Irish university. This unique programme enables students to develop their knowledge of international and regional law, policy and practice as it relates to the phenomena of international migration, human trafficking and refugee law.

Students can combine the study of international migration with specialised modules in international humanitarian law and peace operations, business and human rights, gender and law, child rights, international criminal law, advocacy, activism and strategic litigation, transnational lawyering, post-conflict justice, Islam and human rights.

This programme will be of interest to those who wish to develop specialised legal practice skills in the expanding field of migration and asylum law and human rights. For those already working in the area of international migration/refugee law, you will develop a more solid conceptual and knowledge base to enhance that role.

Course Highlights:
- The Irish Centre for Human Rights is one of the world’s premier university-based institutions for the study and promotion of human rights.
- Expert Lecturers deliver programme modules. Our academics are internationally recognised scholars with world-class expertise and strong records of engagement and impact in the fields of international migration, human trafficking and refugee law.
- Unique qualification on the practice of migration and refugee law through specialised modules, clinical lawyering and advocacy training.
- Excellent networks and links to leading international organisations and practitioners.
- Skills development is enhanced through practice-oriented teaching, allowing students to specialise in oral and written advocacy (legal and policy), strategic litigation, fact-finding and international development and transnational lawyering clinical skills.
- Seminars and workshops with leading international practitioners in migration and refugee law and policy.
- Career Support with targeted career advice and assistance in seeking internship and work placement opportunities.
- Field Trips to the Hague and / or Strasbourg to visit leading international law institutions are optional.
- Assessment is primarily through research papers, presentations and minor thesis rather than exams.

Career Opportunities
The LLM in International Migration and Refugee Law is an ideal programme for those who wish to work with domestic, regional or international non-governmental or inter-governmental organisations specialising in migration or refugee protection, human trafficking or human rights law or policy.

For those interested in pursuing PhD research, students will identify a suitable research question, method and theoretical framework for that research.

WHAT OUR STUDENTS SAY...
I always thought that I wanted to work in the human rights field. However, it was through studying refugee law at the Irish Centre for Human Rights that my interest really crystallised. The interactive lectures and supportive staff inspired me to work towards a career promoting the rights of refugees and asylum seekers. I am currently applying the knowledge gained from my LLM studies in my work as Legal Officer with the Irish Refugee Council’s Independent Law Centre where I provide legal advice to people seeking asylum in Ireland. I remain very much involved in the life of the Centre as I am also in the process of completing a PhD in International Refugee Law there, funded by the Irish Research Council.

- The Flexibility of the programme allows students to study over three or four years, which will facilitate responsibilities at work and at home.

Career Opportunities
Many of our graduates today run successful practices as solicitors or barristers. Other graduates have found employment and advanced their careers in a variety of areas, such as administration, financial services, business, the media, policy development and social work.

We have successful alumni in all walks of life all over the world.

WHAT OUR STUDENTS SAY...
Following my Arts degree I was unsure of what career path to choose. As I have always had an interest in Law and how it works I chose the LLB. The programme is very flexible and well structured, especially for people who work full or part time. The quality of teaching is outstanding. The genuine interest lecturers have in the subjects they teach translates into very engaging and informative lectures, which encourage students to think critically about issues, an invaluable tool in any area of life. Completing the NUI Galway LLB programme was fundamental to my choice of pursuing a career in law.

Research Programmes

Doctoral Studies (PhD)

The School of Law and its specialised research centres, notably, the Irish Centre for Human Rights and the Centre for Disability Law and Policy, offer structured PhD programmes in law.

The Structured PhD is a 4-year full time programme (360 ECTS) which enables students to enhance their research by undertaking, and getting credit for, a programme of education, training, research, personal and professional development activities. The thesis remains central to the award of the PhD with remaining ECTS derived from a research component.

Research areas include:
- HUMAN RIGHTS
- DISABILITY LAW
- HOUSING LAW AND POLICY
- REFUGEE AND IMMIGRATION LAW
- CRIMINOLOGY
- CRIMINAL LAW
- CONSTITUTIONAL LAW
- FAMILY LAW
- EU LAW
- COMMERCIAL LAW
- JURISPRUDENCE
- INTERNATIONAL HUMANITARIAN LAW
- INTERNATIONAL CRIMINAL LAW

The School of Law has a reputation for expert supervision by internationally recognised academics renowned for their research, impact in policy-making and activism. PhD candidates are supported by a specialist supervisor in their field of research and have access to all academics across the School and Research Centres.

The doctoral programme at the School of Law is unique not only because of our exceptional standard of research and level of publication achieved by our students, but also because of the collegial and international environment in which doctoral students work.

Students from a range of countries and academic backgrounds are engaged in research on a broad spectrum of issues relating to international human rights law, international criminal law and law reform in the field of disability.

Students interested in pursuing PhD research in the School of Law should contact a staff member with appropriate expertise in their proposed area of research, or the PhD Programme Director.

NUI Galway does not set a deadline for receipt of applications (some exceptions). Offers will be issued on a continual basis. Candidates are encouraged to apply as early as possible to secure a place on their chosen postgraduate programme.

Fees

Please see the course pages on the NUI Galway website for fee information.

*Field trips are not included in the programme fee structure and will incur additional costs. Understanding the impact of these trips, attendance is not mandatory, and where possible a contribution will be made towards funding.

Scholarships and Funding

At NUI Galway, we are keen to ensure that the brightest and most committed students progress to postgraduate study.

Academic Scholarships

Our generous postgraduate scholarships (valued at €1,500 per student) are designed to reward excellent students who have achieved first-class honours in their undergraduate studies.

Details of the Taught Master’s Scholarship Scheme, and all other course-specific scholarships and bursaries available, are online at www.nuigalway.ie/postgraduate_scholarships.

International Students

Immigration Regulations

Students from EU and EEA member states do not require a visa to study in Ireland.

Students from Non-EU member states are required to comply with Irish Visa and Immigration regulations. It is important that you obtain and maintain a valid passport and Study Visa to enter Ireland for study purposes.

For more information, please visit the ‘Before You Arrive’ section of the University website: http://www.nuigalway.ie/international-students/prearrival.html

The Graduate Permit Scheme

The Graduate Permit Scheme allows legally resident Irish educated non-EU/EEA graduates holding an award of a recognised Irish awarding body to remain in Ireland after their studies.

The Irish Government has extended the scheme for non-EU/EEA students at Level 9 and above of the National Framework of Qualifications. The new permission has doubled the ‘stay back option’ for master’s and PhD students from 12 months to 24 months.

Support Services for International Students

NUI Galway provides a comprehensive advisory and support service for international students to ensure any adjustment problems are minimised.

The University has a dedicated team in the International Affairs Office who organise a comprehensive orientation programme for all new international students at the beginning of term. The office also provides a range of support services specifically for international students such as advice on entry requirements, application processes, English language support classes, immigration requirements and study visas.

English Language Requirements

All applicants, whose first language is not English, must present one of the following qualifications in the English language for a postgraduate law programme.
