GLOBAL FOCUS
STUDY LAW AT NUI GALWAY

EXPERIENCED STAFF
Our academic staff are nationally and internationally recognised experts in their fields and many are also industry experienced. Their invaluable knowledge and experience gives students a unique learning experience, ensuring that they develop the skills necessary to put theory into practice.

The School of Law is also a centre of excellence in research with our internationally recognised research centres. Our students have access to academics who lead research projects and influence national and international policy making.

CAREER FOCUS
Our careers and employment team provide quality career guidance to help students gain clarity, connect with prospective employers and compete for the best jobs.

SKILLS
Skills-based modules are an essential part of our degrees, equipping students with both the academic and practical skills required for successful careers and for life. Our academics work with students to develop competencies including, logical and critical thinking, communication and advocacy skills, project management skills and the ability to construct complex legal arguments. NUI Galway law students become highly skilled, employable graduates confident to progress to professional qualification and to pursue a range of other careers locally, nationally and globally. Development of skills is advanced every year of the degree:

- Year 1: Communication & Advocacy through Mooting
- Year 2: Specialisation & Guided Research Essay
- Year 3: Work Placement or Study Abroad
- Year 4: Foundational Teaching (legal research, critical thinking)

Beyond the lecture hall, there is a wide variety of extra-curricular activities with over 100 student societies, including a very vibrant student Law Society, excellent sports facilities and clubs, volunteering through the ALIVE programme, and the community knowledge initiative. The University also offers a range of supports for students and scholarships such as the Excellence Scholarships and Sports Scholarships.

STUDENT EXPERIENCE
"Studying law at NUI Galway afforded me the opportunity to delve deep into the law, and initially focus on a wide range of subjects. I studied the foundations of law and formed a great understanding of the core principles and subjects that are a pre-requisite for any future career in law and have stood me in good stead to this day. The School of Law now provides Clinical Legal Education Opportunities, enabling students to undergo invaluable practical experience of working in various careers in law and this opportunity should be encouraged and availed of."

FERDIA BREATNACH
Barrister-at-Law, BCL Graduate

INTERNATIONAL FOCUS
Students at NUI Galway will give you an insight into the global legal system that is driving change in the world today, both nationally and internationally. Our modules have an embedded international emphasis so our students have an understanding of the globalisation of legal practice. Students will also have the opportunity to study abroad with prestigious partner institutions, transforming their university degree into a truly global experience.

WORK PLACEMENT
Our Law programmes aim to position students with the skills and graduate attributes needed for employment post-graduation. We partner with leading global, national and local firms to support student development and work placement.

NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL INTERNSHIPS
Our students are in a unique position to apply for a limited number of high profile legal internships, national and international. Our school has established links with a number of prestigious organisations that offer summer internship opportunities.
INNOVATIVE APPROACH

PROGRAMME STRUCTURE

Our programmes are designed to maximise student potential by providing a balance of foundational law modules, critical legal skills and a specialism in different subject areas. Students also have the opportunity to either study abroad or to avail of professional work placement. Throughout the degree, students will develop a comparative understanding of the law and an appreciation of the law in practice. Students will become highly skilled, employable graduates able to progress to professional qualification and to pursue a range of other careers locally, nationally and globally. Our law programmes incorporate the modules examined as part of the Incorporated Law Society of Ireland entrance examinations (barrister qualification).

FOUNDATIONAL TEACHING

NUI Galway is driving innovation in the teaching of law through the concentration of skills at every stage of our degree programmes. The key to this approach is strong foundational teaching. Our module, Understanding the Law, allows students to explore the foundation structures and operations of the Irish legal system while introducing students to the basic skills of case analysis, statutory interpretation, legal citation and writing, and developing capacities for independent research and writing. We teach this module intensively in the opening weeks of the first semester: doing so will (i) support students to transition to the expectations of a university degree, and (ii) build a platform of essential skills which will be necessary as students advance through their legal education. The complementary module, Legal Skills, in the following semester enables students to further develop their research, critical thinking, problem-solving, writing and communication skills.

MOOTING

Mooting is a simulated courtroom experience. Using a hypothetical set of case facts, students learn how to identify legal issues, construct a legal argument, draft legal submissions, and effectively deliver oral arguments. All students will participate in mooting exercises. Past students described participating in mooting as ‘transformative’. The module is delivered through a taught component made up of lectures and an active component where students will participate in practical seminars and a mock trial. Students will be required to work with fellow students in small groups to research and prepare arguments for presentation, and to develop written legal submissions and oral arguments. The final moot court competitions take place in the Galway Courthouse and are presided over by a sitting member of the Irish judiciary.

PROFESSIONAL WORK PLACEMENT

Our students will have the opportunity to gain a professional focus and real world experience through work placement. Students gain invaluable experience by putting theory into practice and developing new skills which can support and influence career direction. We are committed to providing high quality work placements together with nationally and internationally recognised law firms and organisations.

STUDY ABROAD

We offer exciting study-abroad opportunities through ERASMUS and International Exchange. Students that choose a language stream are encouraged to avail of the study abroad opportunity to elevate their linguistic skills by studying in a partnering university that teaches through that language. Students can study through the countries native language in our partner universities in Germany, France and Spain. We have also partnered with a number of leading universities that teach through English in the Netherlands, Hungary, United States of America, India, China, Belgium, Poland, Australia and Canada. Studying abroad gives students the prospect to further broaden their studies in an equivalent world class university. It also provides the opportunity for improved language skills, an appreciation of other cultures and the development of different perspectives on law.

GUIDED RESEARCH ESSAY

The capacity to write long-form research essays is a signature ability of our graduates, and is a key skill for practicing lawyers. As part of our degrees, students will complete a ‘Guided Research Essay’ supported by an academic mentor. Students will greatly benefit from the guidance and supervision of an assigned academic mentor who will meet with them to discuss their research essay and provide feedback on their work.

NEW Irish Language Stream

On return from professional work placement or study abroad, students will be ready to focus on the final year of their degree. This year is structured into specialised streams which align our wide variety of modules into related groupings or specialisms. This allows students to shape their degree and focus on an area of study that interests them and develop special expertise in their chosen field.
Throughout the programme there are a range of options available to students who wish to qualify as solicitors or barristers. Students can tailor their degree to particular areas of interest, whether that be in financial services, consultancy, or international law.

Why choose the Law (BCL) programme?

- Students can focus their studies on the law to maximise their understanding of the legal process.

Law (BCL) and Human Rights

Throughout the programme there is an emphasis on building the fundamental practical skills required of lawyers – legal research, writing, oral presentation and advocacy.

Who choose the Law (BCL) and Human Rights programme?

- This is a unique degree offering in Ireland that gives students the opportunity to combine the study of a full undergraduate law programme with the study of human rights.
- Students will supplement their legal knowledge with a detailed grounding in the theory and practice of human rights.
- Students will have access to world leading researchers, writers and lecturers in human rights at the Irish Centre for Human Rights.
- Students who wish to qualify as solicitors will have the option of taking the full Law degree programme and then complete a one-year Legal Practice Course to pursue a career as a solicitor.
- Students will complete the modules required for the Law Society of Ireland Solicitor professional entrance examinations as core modules. This stream allows students to undertake the modules required for study at the Honorable Society of King’s Inns to pursue a career as a barrister.
- Students who wish to qualify as barristers will have the option of taking all the modules required by the Honourable Society of King’s Inns through the Legal Professions stream.
- Students can also take advantage of our links with highly prestigious international universities to spend a year studying abroad.
- Depending on the partnering institute, modules are taught through English, French or German. Students can study both law and non-law modules.

Work Placement

- Our students will have the opportunity to apply to work with international and national organisations in the human rights field.
- Students on placement will see the law in action, thereby supplementing their academic legal education with practical experience.
- In addition to Professional Work Placement, law students receive one-to-one CV preparation advice, along with interview support and coaching.
- The Irish Centre for Human Rights has a global network of alumni working in human rights, providing excellent links and supports for our students.
- Work placement partners include the Immigrant Council of Ireland, Independent Law Centre, the Irish Refugee Council, Independent Law Centre, Threshold and Community Law and Mediation.

Study Abroad

- Students can also take advantage of our links with highly prestigious international universities to spend a year studying abroad.

  - United States of America

Career Prospects

- Graduates of the Law (BCL) and Human Rights programme will be well prepared to work in international human rights law, policy or legal practice.
- Graduates will have the foundation necessary to pursue opportunities with international organisations, United Nations bodies, NGOs, or developmental agencies.
- As this is a full undergraduate law degree, graduates can also pursue professional qualifications with the Law Society of Ireland (solicitor) and the Honourable Society of King’s Inns (barrister),

Human Rights, Crime and Equality

Students on this stream will focus on the manner in which the State deals with individuals. Many of the modules on offer will focus on how the coercive power of the State may be levied and controlled, while others focus on how the law of the State can be invoked to improve the position of marginalised sections of the community. Module content is targeted at students interested in working in the fields of criminal law and human rights.

The Legal Professions

- Students will complete the modules required for the Law Society of Ireland (solicitor) professional entrance examinations as core modules. This stream allows students to undertake the modules required for study at the Honorable Society of King’s Inns to pursue a career as a barrister.
- Language
  - This stream allows students to take Legal French, Legal German or Teanga an Dlí (Legal Irish) to degree level. Students on this stream will develop their language skills and learn about culture, laws and politics of the country in question. By undertaking a European language students will have a competitive edge when applying to work in international law firms that provide services in multiple languages. Studying Teanga an Dlí (Legal Irish) will open up opportunities for employment in legal departments of an Irish-language organisation, law firms which provide legal advice through the Irish-language, the public sector and legal translation and interpretation.

Business and Commercial Law

This stream focuses on law specifically in a business context. It is targeted at students with a particular interest in the legal aspects of business. Students taking this stream will take commercial law subjects with a view to preparing them to work in a commercial legal environment. This stream will be of particular benefit to students who are interested in seeking apprenticeships with large commercial law firms.

Public Law, Risk and Regulation

The modules offered in this stream focus students’ attention on how State bodies operate within the State’s borders. State agencies regulate numerous aspects of individuals’ lives and commercial activities with a view to reducing the risk of harm to individuals, but these agencies are themselves subject of the regulation. This stream will be of interest to students who wish to work in the public sphere.

International, Comparative and Transnational Law

Students interested in working in an international legal environment should take this stream. Some of the modules will allow students to learn about the laws that regulate how countries deal with each other, while others consider how different countries approach similar legal issues. Still other modules focus on how best to deal with legal issues that cross international borders.

Why choose the Law and Taxation programme?

- Taxation is a key component of global business in today's commercial world. Law firms are expanding their practice in the area of taxation, creating an increased demand for law graduates with a knowledge of taxation. This degree will provide students with knowledge and skills for legal practice, taxation or both.
- This distinctive degree allows students to combine the study of a full undergraduate law degree with taxation and still explore other related areas of law and commerce, such as Business and Commercial Law, Accounting, Economics, Digital Business and Management.
- Students will have completed all the modules required to support them to undertake the entrance exams for the Law Society of Ireland, should they wish to qualify as a solicitor.
- Students who wish to qualify as a barrister will have the option of taking all additional modules required by the Honourable Society of King’s Inns, through the Legal Professions stream in the final year.

Throughout the programme there is an emphasis on building the fundamental practical skills required of lawyers such as legal research, understanding legislation, problem solving, legal writing, oral presentation and advocacy.

Professional Work Placement

- Students will have the opportunity to apply to work in law firms that specialise in taxation or firms with a tax department.
- Students on placement will see law and taxation in action, thereby supplementing their academic legal education with practical experience.
- In advance of Professional Work Placement, law students receive one-to-one CV preparation advice, along with interview support and coaching.
- Work placement partners include Eversheds Sutherland, McCann FitzGerald, Ernst & Young and Deloitte.

Study Abroad

Career Prospects

- Commercial law firms are expanding their expertise in taxation to respond to international markets and the growing demand for legal expertise in this area.
- Leading multinationals and companies are now hiring in-house legal counsel with taxation expertise to support global operations.

The Legal Professions

Students will complete the modules required for the Law Society of Ireland (solicitor), professional entrance examinations as core modules. This stream allows students to undertake the modules required for study at the Honourable Society of King’s Inns (barrister).

Business and Commercial Law

This stream focuses on law specifically in a business context. It is targeted at students with a particular interest in the legal aspects of business.

Students will take commercial law modules with a view to preparing them to work in a commercial environment. This stream will be of particular interest to students who are interested in seeking apprenticeships with large commercial law firms.

Economics

Students can develop their knowledge of economic theory through modules as diverse as the economics of globalisation, the economics of money and finance, and health and environment economics. With this knowledge and the associated skills, students who specialise in economics will be able to work in the private, public or voluntary sectors, as economic analysts, researchers, advocates, policy advisors or economic consultants.

Accounting

Students study accounting modules, positioning themselves for a career in accountability.

Digital Business and Analytics

This specialisation focuses on the implementation, use and management of information systems (IS) within business. It contains practice-based modules that teach students how to create IS using database technology, web development and computer programming languages. It also provides modules that enable students to investigate how to manage IS within business. Students will be well positioned to secure jobs as management consultants, analysts specialising in IS or to work within the IS department of a business.

Management

This specialisation focuses on management within a global work environment. It explores topics within the fields of Human Resource Management, Business Strategy and Labour Law and will appeal to a student with a focus on understanding how business organisations manage their operations within their environment.

- Throughout the programme there is an emphasis on building on the fundamental practical skills required of lawyers – legal research, writing, oral presentation and advocacy.

Work Placement
- Students will have the opportunity to apply for a professional work placement in a leading law firm, a corporate organisation, a public sector organisation or other suitable legal placement.
- Students on placement will see the law in action, thereby supplementing their academic legal education with practical exposure.
- In advance of Professional Work Placement, law students receive one-to-one CV preparation advice, along with interview support and coaching.
- Work placement partners include: Matheson, A & L Goodbody, Arthur Cox, William Fry, Maples Group, Darnell Tansey Solicitors, Ronan Daly Jermyn (RDJ), AMOSS Solicitors, CIE and Irish Water.

Career Prospects
- Graduates of the Bachelor of Law and Business programme will have a variety of career paths open to them, depending on the specialism they select in their degree.
- All graduates will be well equipped to work in a corporate legal environment.
- Graduates of this degree will be ready to sit the professional entrance examination for the Law Society of Ireland (solicitor). Graduates who have elected to complete the Legal Professions specialist stream will be ready to sit the professional entrance examinations for the Honourable Society of King’s Inns (barrister). Graduates who have taken the commercial specialisms will be able to seek exemptions from qualifications offered by commercial professional bodies such as the Chartered Institute of Accountants.

Study Abroad
- Students can study abroad at partner institutions around the world, giving them the opportunity to experience legal and business education in an international setting and to gain a different perspective on the law and commercial services.
- Depending on the partnering institute, tuition is through English, Spanish, French or German. Students can study both Law and non-law modules.
- Students that choose a language module are encouraged to avail of the study abroad opportunity to improve linguistic skills.
- We have established study abroad links/partners in the following countries:
  - Australia
  - Belgium
  - Canada
  - China
  - France
  - Germany
  - Hungary
  - India

- Teanga an Dlí (Legal Irish)

Digital Business & Analytics
This specialisation focuses on the implementation, use and management of information systems (IS) within business. It contains practice-based modules that teach students how to create IS using database technology, web design technology and computer programming languages. It also provides modules that enable students to investigate how to manage IS within business. Students will be well positioned to secure jobs as management consultants and analysts specialising in IS or to work within the IS department of a business.

Language
This stream allows students to take Legal French, Legal German, Spanish or Teanga an Dlí (Legal Irish) to degree level. In addition to developing language skills, students undertaking Legal French, Legal German or Teanga an Dlí (Legal Irish) will also learn about culture, laws and politics of the country in question. By undertaking a European language students will have a competitive edge when applying to work in international law firms that provide services in multiple languages. Studying Teanga an Dlí (Legal Irish) will open up opportunities for employment in legal departments of an Irish-language organisation, law firms which provide legal advice through the Irish-language, the public sector and legal translation and interpretation.
Introduction

The BA (Joint-Honours) in Law programme gives students a solid grounding in law while also providing them with a well-rounded education. There is a wide variety of subjects to choose from. Furthermore, those who wish to qualify as a solicitor or barrister may proceed into the final year of the LLB programme. Upon graduation from the LLB programme students can pursue professional legal training as a solicitor (with the Law Society of Ireland) or as a barrister (with the Honorable Society of King’s Inns).

Career prospects

Not all law graduates choose to practice as solicitors or barristers. Many graduates decide to pursue careers outside legal practice. Law graduates acquire knowledge and skills through their programme that ensure that they are highly employable in many sectors.

LEAVING CERTIFICATE ENTRY REQUIREMENTS:

Minimum Grade H5 in two subjects and passes in four other subjects at O6/ H7 in the Leaving Certificate, including Irish, English, another language and three other subjects recognised for entry purposes.

Other related degrees with law components

Bachelor of Commerce – Law stream

Students can elect for the law stream in the final year of their commerce degree. A range of law subjects are available, including Business Law, Company Law and European Union Law. Bachelor of Commerce graduates who have taken the law stream can be admitted to the post graduate LL.B programme to complete a full law degree. They can be exempt from first year of the programme provided they have completed the required number of law modules. Students should contact the College of Arts, Social Sciences & Celtic Studies for further information.

BA Government (Politics, Economics and Law)

The BA Government (Politics, Economics and Law) is a four year multidisciplinary BA degree that focuses upon public policy and how it affects people, the environment, and the economy. Students shall study a major subject, either Sociology and Political Science, Economics or Law and complement this by studying the other two disciplines as minor subjects. The focus on government and public policy across three academic disciplines will provide students with a more complete understanding of subjects that are critically important to understanding today’s world. The course will include coursework that will enable students to understand and apply empirical statistical analysis in applied, real-world settings.

BA Human Rights

The Bachelor of Arts with Human Rights is an exciting, four year degree programme offered by the College of Arts, Social Sciences, and Celtic Studies in conjunction with the Irish Centre for Human Rights. The Irish Centre for Human Rights is recognised as a world leader in human rights teaching, research and advocacy. The programme explores the human rights legal framework, along with the philosophical basis and historical development of human rights. It provides students with both theoretical and practical understanding of how the human rights system works at international, regional and national level. Students will become familiar with key concepts such as human dignity, equality and non-discrimination. The programme also covers the role of different actors in the promotion and protection of human rights, including the human rights work undertaken by the United Nations, Non-Governmental Organisations (NGOs), and Regional and National systems. Students should contact the Irish Centre for Human Rights for further information.

Students on the BA (Joint-Honours) Degree who take Law as one of their three subjects in first year, can progress with Law as one of their two subjects to degree level, if they successfully pass all of their subjects in the first sitting exams in first year and are among the top 130 students in Law in first year.
WHAT OUR RECENT GRADUATES SAY...

“I chose to study a BA (Joint Honours) in Law followed by the Bachelor of Laws (LL.B) because of the professional, engaged and approachable lecturing staff in NUI Galway. The best part of the LL.B was getting the opportunity to take the Moot Court module which involved advocating in front of a judge of the High Court in the Galway Courthouse. This motivated and empowered me to pursue a career as a solicitor. Overall, the BA (Joint Honours) and the LL.B gave me the knowledge and skills necessary for a legal career.”

AMANDA WOLF
BA (Joint Honours) Law, Bachelor of Laws (LL.B)

“I was interested in the areas of law that focused on world business, markets and commerce. The Bachelor of Corporate Law (now known as Law & Business) offered me the unique opportunity to study a combination of a language, business and law. It gave me the ability to tailor my degree to fit my areas of interest through the wide range of module choice. Throughout the course, there is a focus on independent, creative and critical thinking. Graduates have the advantage of understanding how the law interacts with the world around us in a business context. I would encourage students to make the most of NUI Galway and the amazing city of Galway.”

NIAMH GALLAGHER
Law and Business

“‘The Law BCL (Bachelor of Civil Law) offers a wide range of module choice, including all core areas of law, and incorporated academic learning, problem solving and practical opportunities. It enabled me to be an inquisitive and well-rounded law graduate. Lecturers and tutors provided detailed classes and tutorials providing in-depth theoretical knowledge. I gained practical experience through the placement option. There was also a strong focus on legal research each year which is crucial regardless of what career path you choose.”

CHIARA QUONDAMATTEO
Law (BCL)

“‘The Bachelor of Corporate Law integrated two areas of study that were of strong interest to me, law and business. The lecturers were excellent at encouraging engagement and were very approachable. Through the School of Law connections with high profile internship opportunities, I completed an internship with the Office of the Irish Attorney General. This experience is invaluable for the working world.”
