School of Languages, Literatures and Cultures
Roínn na Gaeilge

INDIGENOUS ARTS EXPLORATION

Course Syllabus*

Course Lecturer: Dr Liam Ó hAisibéil
Room 117, Áras na Gaeilge.
T: +353 91 492 578
liam.ohaisibeil@oegaillimh.ie

*as guest speakers, performances, field-trips, and course events are subject to change each semester, this document is for indicative purposes only.
SEMESTER 1 or 2

NG160 Indigenous Arts Exploration [5 ECTS]

MODULE REGISTRATION

This module is open to Occasional Arts (Visiting) students who are registered with the course code OA. You cannot pre-register for this module. Students are selected on the basis of a personal statement, submitted after their arrival at the National University of Ireland, Galway.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This ten-week course offers participants the opportunity to explore the evolution of the indigenous art forms of Ireland, through the media of film, drama, music, song and oral presentations and performances. Students will gain an alternative perspective on Ireland’s literary, cultural and performative heritage through reading and viewing a selection of iconic texts, film and performances which represent the traditional art forms of Ireland in their broadest sense. A key element of the course is the emphasis on the Irish language, surely the most salient emblem of Ireland’s indigenous culture. Classes will consist of lectures, practical work-shops, film presentations, and discussion of reading and viewing materials. Participants will also have the opportunity to engage with the practices of traditional song and dance during classes. Archive and contemporary film, where appropriate, in both documentary and fictional genres will provide a comprehensive background to the selected art form and will provide a context for active discussion at the end of each session.

The traditional art forms that may feature in this course are:

- The performance arts of music, dance, song, drama;
- Written art forms – Irish language poetry, prose [in translation]
- Film – exemplars of Ireland’s indigenous arts in audio and visual media.
LEARNING OUTCOMES:

Students of NG160 Indigenous Arts Exploration will be able to:

- Outline salient features of Irish indigenous culture and art forms;
- Assess the role and status of the Irish language today, considering its official but minority position in regard to the English language in Ireland;
- Critically evaluate a performance/text/visual presentation;
- Compare and evaluate the indigenous art forms of Ireland.

ASSESSMENT:

Indigenous Arts Exploration is a credit bearing (5 ECTS) practice-based class and as such, is assessed by continuous assessment, comprising:

(a) 60% for one 2,500 word (±10% of word count) research paper;
(b) 40% for content of two reflective journal entries;

COURSE PRACTICALITIES AND ARTS IN ACTION EVENTS:

The majority of scheduled events take place on the NUI Galway main campus on Thursdays, from 11am-1pm. A number of events (i.e. field-trips) will be held off-campus and may involve being away from the university for the entire working day (9am-6pm).

Students are also required to attend a selection of the Arts in Action concert series as outlined in the course schedule. These concerts take place on Wednesday afternoons (from 1 – 2pm) at The Cube, Áras na Mac Léinn, but may also take place elsewhere on campus. For a detailed description of Arts in Action events, please see: http://www.nuigalway.ie/artsinaction.

If you have any further queries regarding this module, please contact the module lecturer and course co-ordinator Dr Liam Ó hAisibéil, Discipline of Irish, NUI Galway at liam.ohaisibeil@oegaillimh.ie or by telephone at +353 91 492 578.
NG160 Indigenous Arts Exploration (Sample Bibliography)

All of these titles do not have to be consulted – indicative content only Almqvist B. ed., 2012. Atlantic currents: essays on lore, literature and language: essays in honours of Séamus Ó Catháin on the occasion of his 70th birthday, edited by Bo Almqvist ... [et al.], Dublin: UCD Press.

Danaher K., 1972. The year in Ireland: [Irish calendar customs], Cork: Mercier Press.

Ó Súilleabháin S., 1967. Irish folk custom and belief, Dublin: Published for the Cultural Relations Committee of Ireland at the Three Candles.